Call Opens:	4 th September 2023
Deadline for Submissions:	2 nd October 2023
Send Application package to:	wphfapplications@unwomen.org

1. Objectives and Purpose of the Call for Proposals

The overall purpose of this call for proposals is to provide grants to local civil society organizations in Uganda focused on conflict prevention and protection of women and girls in conflict and humanitarian contexts with local women and young women's rights organizations.

The call for proposals specifically contributes to WPHF's Impact Area 2: Increased meaningful participation and decision-making of women in conflict prevention processes and response, and Impact Area 5: Enhanced safety, security and mental health of women and girls' and their human rights respected and overall goal of contributing to peaceful and gender equal societies.

2. Country Context Linked to Call for Proposals

Violent conflicts are widely acknowledged as one of the main impediments to attaining the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) by 2030. In Uganda, there is no region that has not experienced some form of violent conflict in the last 30 years. The specific conflicts currently in Uganda are triggered by the influx of refugees, socio-economic and demographic concerns, conflicts over natural resources, climate change and environmental stressors and disasters, transnational threats, organized criminal activities, cultural disputes, transitional justice, violent extremism, political and electoral related conflicts, and border disputes. These conflicts have created negative marks that continue to define the country's development. Women have overwhelmingly borne the brunt of violent conflicts and the Global WPS Index 2019/20 places Uganda at 109 out of 167 countries¹. For example, conflict and insecurity are most prevalent and visible in the Karamoja sub-region, including livestock raids, food insecurity, small-scale thefts, road ambushes, killing in urban areas, disputes over land, and violence against women and girls. Needless to mention that heightened insecurity in this region reduces women's productivity and increases their vulnerability to violence.

In Uganda and elsewhere, women remain underrepresented in efforts to negotiate peaceful resolutions to conflict. Globally, between 1990 and 2017, women constituted only two percent of mediators, eight percent of negotiators and five percent of witnesses and signatories in all major peace processes². Women's inability to engage in preventing violence is negatively impacted by prevailing gender inequalities in Uganda, including lower levels of education, community eco-system coupled with the cultural and religious norms and practices in many communities that bar women from speaking out, and misconceptions about women's empowerment.

It conforms with human rights standards and international best practices, contributing to the Sustainable Development Goals (SDG) 5 on gender equality and 16 on peace, justice, and strong institutions. About the Women’s Peace and Humanitarian Fund (WPHF)

The WPHF is a global pooled funding mechanism which aims to stimulate a significant increase in financing for women’s participation, leadership, and empowerment in peace and security processes and humanitarian response. The WPHF is a flexible and rapid financing mechanism. It supports quality interventions designed to enhance the capacity of local women to prevent conflict, respond to crises and emergencies, and seize key peacebuilding opportunities. The overall goal of the WPHF’s theory of change is to contribute to peaceful and gender equal societies. Achievement of this goal will require that women are empowered to participate in, contribute to, and benefit from conflict prevention, crisis response, peacebuilding, and recovery. Since its launch in 2016, WPHF has been supporting over 1000 civil society organizations and is present in 42 countries or group of countries.

The WPHF is governed by a Funding Board at the global level, which is comprised of four UN entities (currently UN Women, UNHCR, UNFPA and PBSO), four donor Member States (currently Norway, Germany, Italy, and the United States), as well as 4 Civil Society Organizations (currently Feminist Humanitarian Network, Kvinna till Kvinna, Action Aid and Women's Refugee Commission).

At the country level, the final selection of shortlisted proposals will be undertaken by a National Steering Committee, which is comprised of UN agencies, civil society organizations, donor representatives and governments.
